PREFACE

CENTURIES ago Solomon, the wise man, said, "Of making many books there is no end." Horace Greeley, commenting upon this saying, once remarked, "Tho there is happily a speedy end of most books after they are made." Publishers can verify Mr. Greeley's statement. Why, then, venture this book?

It has been in the mind of the publisher for many months past to gather such information concerning our city as appears on the foregoing pages, that our citizens may better know what we have within our gates and also to inform others into whose hands this Volume may fall, that we have "no mean city."

I find it difficult, in fact impossible, to express adequately my sense of obligation and gratitude to the many ministers, manufacturers, fraternal organizations, public officials, leading citizens and others, who by giving valuable information and generous encouragement have facilitated in the work of preparation.

We are very glad indeed to present to our friends, patrons and the public in general this volume "Picturesque New Albany." As the enterprise has been officially endorsed by the Mayor and members of the City Council, also the Chamber of Commerce, who have assisted us in many ways, we sincerely hope that it may in the end, revert to the interests and welfare of our thriving and beautiful city.

Most Cordially,

REV. S. HOLMES WOOD.

New Albany, Indiana, June 1923.

NEW ALBANY

The county seat of Floyd County, Indiana, is situated on the bank of the beautiful Ohio river, comprising what is known as one of the three Falls Cities, of which Jeffersonville, Indiana and Louisville, Kentucky, are the other two, and about one hundred miles almost due south of Indianapolis, the capital of the state, is one of the most beautiful and important cities of its size to be found anywhere. Being located in the Ohio river valley makes it a good agricultural country and by reason of its large and extensive manufacturing interests and many natural advantages, New Albany occupies an enviable position among its neighboring cities as one of the leading commercial marts of the country. The 1920 census gave New Albany a population of 22,992, which is a 11.5 per cent. gain over 1910. This does not take into account the suburbs and growth since 1920 which makes New Albany's population approximately 25,000. Only 5 per cent. of the population is colored, while 2 per cent. is foreign born. The nations centers of population and industry are located not many miles from here.

It is traversed by five steam and one electric railroad. The main line of the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville (Monon); Baltimore & Ohio; Pennsylvania; Southern; Kentucky Indiana Terminal, and the Interstate (Electric). The Kentucky & Indiana Terminal railroad affords shipping facilities with five other railroads entering Louisville: Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis (Big Four Route), New York Central Lines; Chesapeake & Ohio; Illinois Central; Louisville & Nashville; Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis. Additional means of transportation is provided by the Ohio River which is destined to be one of the greatest inland channels in the world for moving freight. The Ohio river is a great factor in maintaining equitable freight rates on raw material entering New Albany and on finished products moving out of this city.

Consequently favored by direct connection with all parts of the middlewest and south and with through freight rates in effect to points in both Southern and Official Freight classification territories, this city enjoys unusual advantages as a distributing point for manufacturers and as an economic assembling point for raw materials.

There are three railroad bridges at this Ohio river crossing. These bridges have never gone out during any high water periods, which assures an open gateway between the North and South at all times. New Albany is directly served by the Kentucky & Indiana Terminal bridge which is equipped with drive-ways.

The importance of these factors and the activity of the Interstate Public Service Company and commercial organizations in connection with industrial and real estate development, together with satisfactory labor and living conditions and other advantages have undoubtedly been responsible for New Albany's recent pronounced industrial growth.

The natural resources are limestone, sand and gravel, glass sand, molding sand, clays and oil shale.

Dairy products, berries, apples, peaches, small fruits and tomatoes, for canning factories are the chief agricultural products in the country surrounding New Albany. Tomatoes are extensively grown for canning factories. Truck farming is also increasing. A large acreage is devoted to strawberries which is exceptionally fine and are shipped in car load lots to Indianapolis and Chicago. Potatoes also constitute an important crop. There is one milch cow to every six persons in Floyd County and the dairy business is increasing. Wheat and corn are not grown on an extensive scale.

During the year ending December 31, 1922, there was reported to the secretary of the city board of health three hundred and thirty-two deaths, which is less than one and one half per cent of the total population. This is unusually small and shows that this is a very healthy community in which to live. During the same period there was reported five hundred and fourteen births. At that rate we are making a net gain of one hundred and eighty-two each year.

This city is governed by a Mayor and Council which are elected for a term of four years. They are all united in promoting the best interests of the city. The bonded indebtedness is being greatly reduced every year. About twenty-five miles of improved streets have been made and others are under construction. Considering the size of New Albany, the fire department is one of the best to be found anywhere. The firemen are efficient and heroic. At present there are two motorized stations and a contract let for the third which will be ready for service about the first of August. It will be placed in engine house No. 3, on West Market street. Twenty-seven firemen stand ready to answer an alarm, day or night, in any part of the city and on Silver Hills. It might be interesting for some to know that we have ten thousand feet of hose which is an ample amount to fight the worst conflagration. The value of this hose is thirteen thousand dollars. Value of other equipment, including stations is over one hundred thousand dollars. Two hundred and thirty-four fires were reported last year with a loss of forty thousand dollars. This is an average of about one hundred and fifty dollars for each fire which is exceedingly small. The firemen deserve more credit from the public for their heroic efforts in saving property often times endangering their lives.

To the close observer, no better standard can be used in judging the stability of citizenship than that of its surrounding moralizing influences, and in which New Albany stands without an equal in the state, in proportion to its size in the large and magnificent temples of worship, and the common school system within her domain.

Thirty different religious bodies are represented here and the church buildings are good substantial structures and commodious houses of worship. The Ministers are all live, wide-awake and aggressive men who are "Shepherding the Sheep". The following statistics have been furnished the publisher by the various ministers, representing eighteen of the leading churches, sixteen Protestant and two Catholic:

Total number of members, twelve thousand five hundred and forty; Sunday School enrollment, five thousand six hundred and thirty-three; Value of church property, one million three hundred and ninety seven thousand dollars; Annual budget of expense, over one hundred thousand dollars; Amount paid the ministers for salaries, thirty-three thousand nine hundred and sixty dollars.

It is a far cry from the first school in New Albany, founded in 1823 with one teacher and twenty scholars, and with a revenue of $300 to the present school system embracing as it does investments of $900,000; expenditures of a revenue of $190,000 per annum; the employment of 115 teachers, 25 other employees and the enrollment of over 4000 students. In those days the children were taught the three Rs. Now they are given a substantial education, not only in the common branches and high school subjects generally, but in Manual Training, Domestic Arts, Fine Arts, Printing, Mechanical Drawing and Auto Mechanics.

The Trustees are about to put into commission the State Street School Building, which will lessen to a marked degree the congested condition of the school buildings in the west end. When the proposed high school will have been finished, the children of the city will be provided with ample accommodation for the next thirty years.

The New Albany schools have a high rating by the State authorities and the high school is just as celebrated for the many splendid young men and women who have been graduated from it in the past years. They represent every profession, trade and occupation; and many have achieved distinction in their chosen line of activity. An alumnus of this school is filling a responsible position at a salary of forty thousand dollars annually. At the present, the ranking students at Purdue, DePauw and the University of Cincinnati are recent graduates of the city high school.

The New Albany Business College was established in 1865 and has been in continuous session since that date. It numbers among its graduates men and women in all walks of life.

More than one hundred thousand young men and women have been trained for business in this institution, this is more than four times the population of our city.

From June 1, 1922 to June 1, 1923 two hundred and sixty-three students have been enrolled.

The Pyramid Courses, which is considered one of the best accounting courses in the country, are taught exclusively by this school.

Ninety per cent of the business men of our city are graduates of this college. All bank Presidents in New Albany with but one exception have graduated from this college.

This is an ideal city for beautiful homes. About two hundred modern houses were erected during the last year and more are going up every day. This will relieve the housing problem to a great extent. The many wide streets with the fine shade trees beautify the city.

New Albany has six well capitalized banks that have withstood the era of panics as well as prosperity. They are as follows: American Bank & Trust Company, Floyd County Bank, Mutual Trust & Deposit Company, New Albany National Bank, New Albany Trust Company, and The Second National Bank. With a total combined capital stock of over one million dollars and with resources of over ten million. To show that our people are thrifty is evidenced by the number of depositors and the amount to their credit on deposit. The number of depositors is twenty thousand which is eighty per cent. of our population and the amount on deposit is over seven million dollars which they are probably keeping for a proverbial "rainy day" or old age.

One of the public buildings to which our citizens point with pride is the United States Court House and Post Office that was erected in 1887, the corner stone being laid by Bruce Carr of Indianapolis under the auspices of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Indiana. This beautiful and spacious building is built of Ohio sand stone. The government made an appropriation of $200,000 for this work and when the building was completed it was found that several thousand dollars was saved and that amount was turned back to the government. An addition to the south of twenty-three feet was made in 1917 to care for the growing business and this cost $65,000. To-day the building could not be replaced for less than $500,000. We are proud to say that this is rated as a first-class post office. The annual gross receipts is $67,000 and that does not include money orders. Two million letters are dispatched annually and as many are received. The monthly pay roll for the employees amount to about $4,300. The clerk of the United States Court, who is also a commissioner, the deputy collector of Internal Revenue and several assistants maintain offices in this building.

Counting substitute carriers and janitors, there was forty-eight employees at the office May 1st. Fifty thousand people are served from this office. Four rural route carriers, who leave the office daily except Sunday and holidays, travel a total distance of ninety-two miles on their daily trips and visit six hundred and eleven boxes, serving six hundred and ninety-three families. There are one hundred and nine street letter boxes conveniently placed in different sections of the city. To serve the business men after post office hours, there has been placed for their convenience three hundred and eighty-eight lock boxes at the office.

The Internal Revenue Division Office in Rooms 201-202 203, Federal Building, is the Fourth Division of the Indiana District, and is under the supervision of Charles T. Miller, Division Chief. The Fourth Division comprises the following twelve counties: Floyd, Clark, Crawford, Harrison, Orange, Washington, Scott, Lawrence, Jackson, Jennings, Jefferson and Switzerland. Three Field Deputies are engaged in this Division, with their zone posts of duty in Bedford, Seymour and New Albany. The Government's interests pertaining to Federal Taxes in these twelve counties is transacted and recorded through the New Albany Division office for report and transmission to the Collector's office in Indianapolis. Mr. M. Bert Thurman, a leading and prominent citizen of this city is the Collector for the Indiana district, with his office in Indianapolis.

The Interstate Public Service Company serves the city with electricity, gas, filtered water and a good street car and interurban system. The public utility plants are modern, many improvements being recently made. The officers and employees are progressive and courteous in serving the public. The Interstate is always ready and willing to do its part to help further the development of this community. They have accomplished a great deal for the mutual benefit of all concerned. They have been responsible for the location of several important industries.

New Albany has a diversity of industries—wood-working is the leading manufacturing business. New Albany is the largest plywood center in the world.

Residents of New Albany perhaps do not fully realize the great importance of the factories to the city's prosperity. There are about forty major industrial plants here. In addition there are scores of smaller concerns, some of them being semi-industrial.

Some of the factories have grown from the smallest unit to big prosperous business enterprises, while others have been located here from other parts of the country. All of them have proved to be substantial concerns. It is impossible to measure in dollars and cents what the factories mean to the city commercially and socially. Excepting some of the smaller plants,—those employing two or three operatives,—the factories employ 3,530 men and women.

From a survey of the industrial situation made up-to-date approximately $72,000 is paid each week by the factories at New Albany in wages. This amount does not include the salaries paid the office forces. The total amount of wages paid every year, it will be seen is about $3,744,000. This money goes into every avenue of life in the city, the merchant, schools, churches and theatres are the beneficiaries, as well as the city and county in the way of taxes.

The major plants of the city are included among the following: The Ohio Falls Iron Company, Wood-Mosaic Company, Ames Shovel and Tool Company, Anchor Stove and Range Company, August Barth Leather Company, Calumet Fertilizer Company, Wolfeld-Day Leather Company, M. Fine & Sons, Floyd County Veneer Mills, S. J. Gardner Foundry & Machine Company, Gohmann Brothers & Kahler Company, Charles Hegewald Company, Hoosier Panel Company, Hopkins Fertilizer Company, R. H. Humphrey and Company, Indiana Veneer and Panel Company, the Kahler Company, Conrad-Kammerer Glue Company, Peter Klerner Furniture Company, Monon Veneer Company, George Moser Leather Company, National Hame and Chain Company, New Albany Box and Basket Company, New Albany Hosiery Mill, New Albany Manufacturing Company, Conner Furniture Company, New Albany Veneering Company, Ohio River Hub Company, Period Cabinet Manufacturing Company, Pickrel Veneer Company, H. A. Seinsheimer Company, Zier Boiler & Sheet Iron Company, McLeadercamp Company, Zabel Milling Company, New Albany Canning Corporation, Eureka Stone Rubbing Company, Huber Ice Cream Company, Purity Maid Products Company, Model Baking Company, National Ice & Products Company, New Albany Ice and Cold Storage Company, Shrader Battery Co., Joe Renn's Bottling Works, City Bottling Works, Indiana Candy Company.

A large variety of articles are manufactured at the local plants. Among the manufactured products are wooden handles, stoves, ranges, tanned leather, doors, sashes and other building parts, fertilizers, shirts, hardwood lumber, castings, machine products, furnaces, boilers, canned goods, veneer, bent wood, furniture, glue, hames, chains, boxes, baskets, hosiery, iron and steel, hubs, veneered products, men's clothing, garden tractors, bakery products, ice, ice cream, furs, rubbing stones, ammonia, gas, storage batteries, carbonated beverages, candies, cement, butter, cigars, harness, saddles, tallow, hydraulic elevators, books, wool waste, automobile bodies, onion set planters, flour, meal, and many other articles.

A great many of the manufactured products of New Albany are not only shipped to all parts of the United States but also to Mexico and the South American Republics. Some of the articles are also sent to different parts of Europe and Asia.

The New Albany industrial plants are headed by an exceptional lot of business leaders. All of the concerns are showing a constant growth, indicative of the high type of managements of them. During the past few years a large number of the companies have made extensive additions, amounting to thousands of dollars.

Glenwood is an ideal picnic park with ample shelter, filtered drinking water, refreshment stands and an abundance of shade from the mammoth beech trees. Silver Creek runs through the park and affords an opportunity for boating, bathing and fishing. The ball ground and athletic field is enjoyed by the young folks of the Three Falls Cities as well as by the grown-ups. Glenwood Park and athletic field contains twenty-four acres.

Silver Hills, three hundred feet above the Ohio River, affords a view of the Falls Cities and the valleys down the River. There are many beautiful homes and building sites are plentiful on Silver Hills. Many Louisville business men reside on the North Side.

New Albany needs furniture factories—This community affords special advantages for the location and economical operation of furniture factories. A large saving in freight rates and warehouse costs would result from locating here, as the veneer and panels which are finished products of the large veneer and panel plants in operation here would be raw materials for furniture factories. In addition to good labor, New Albany is a good distributing point for this particular line of business.

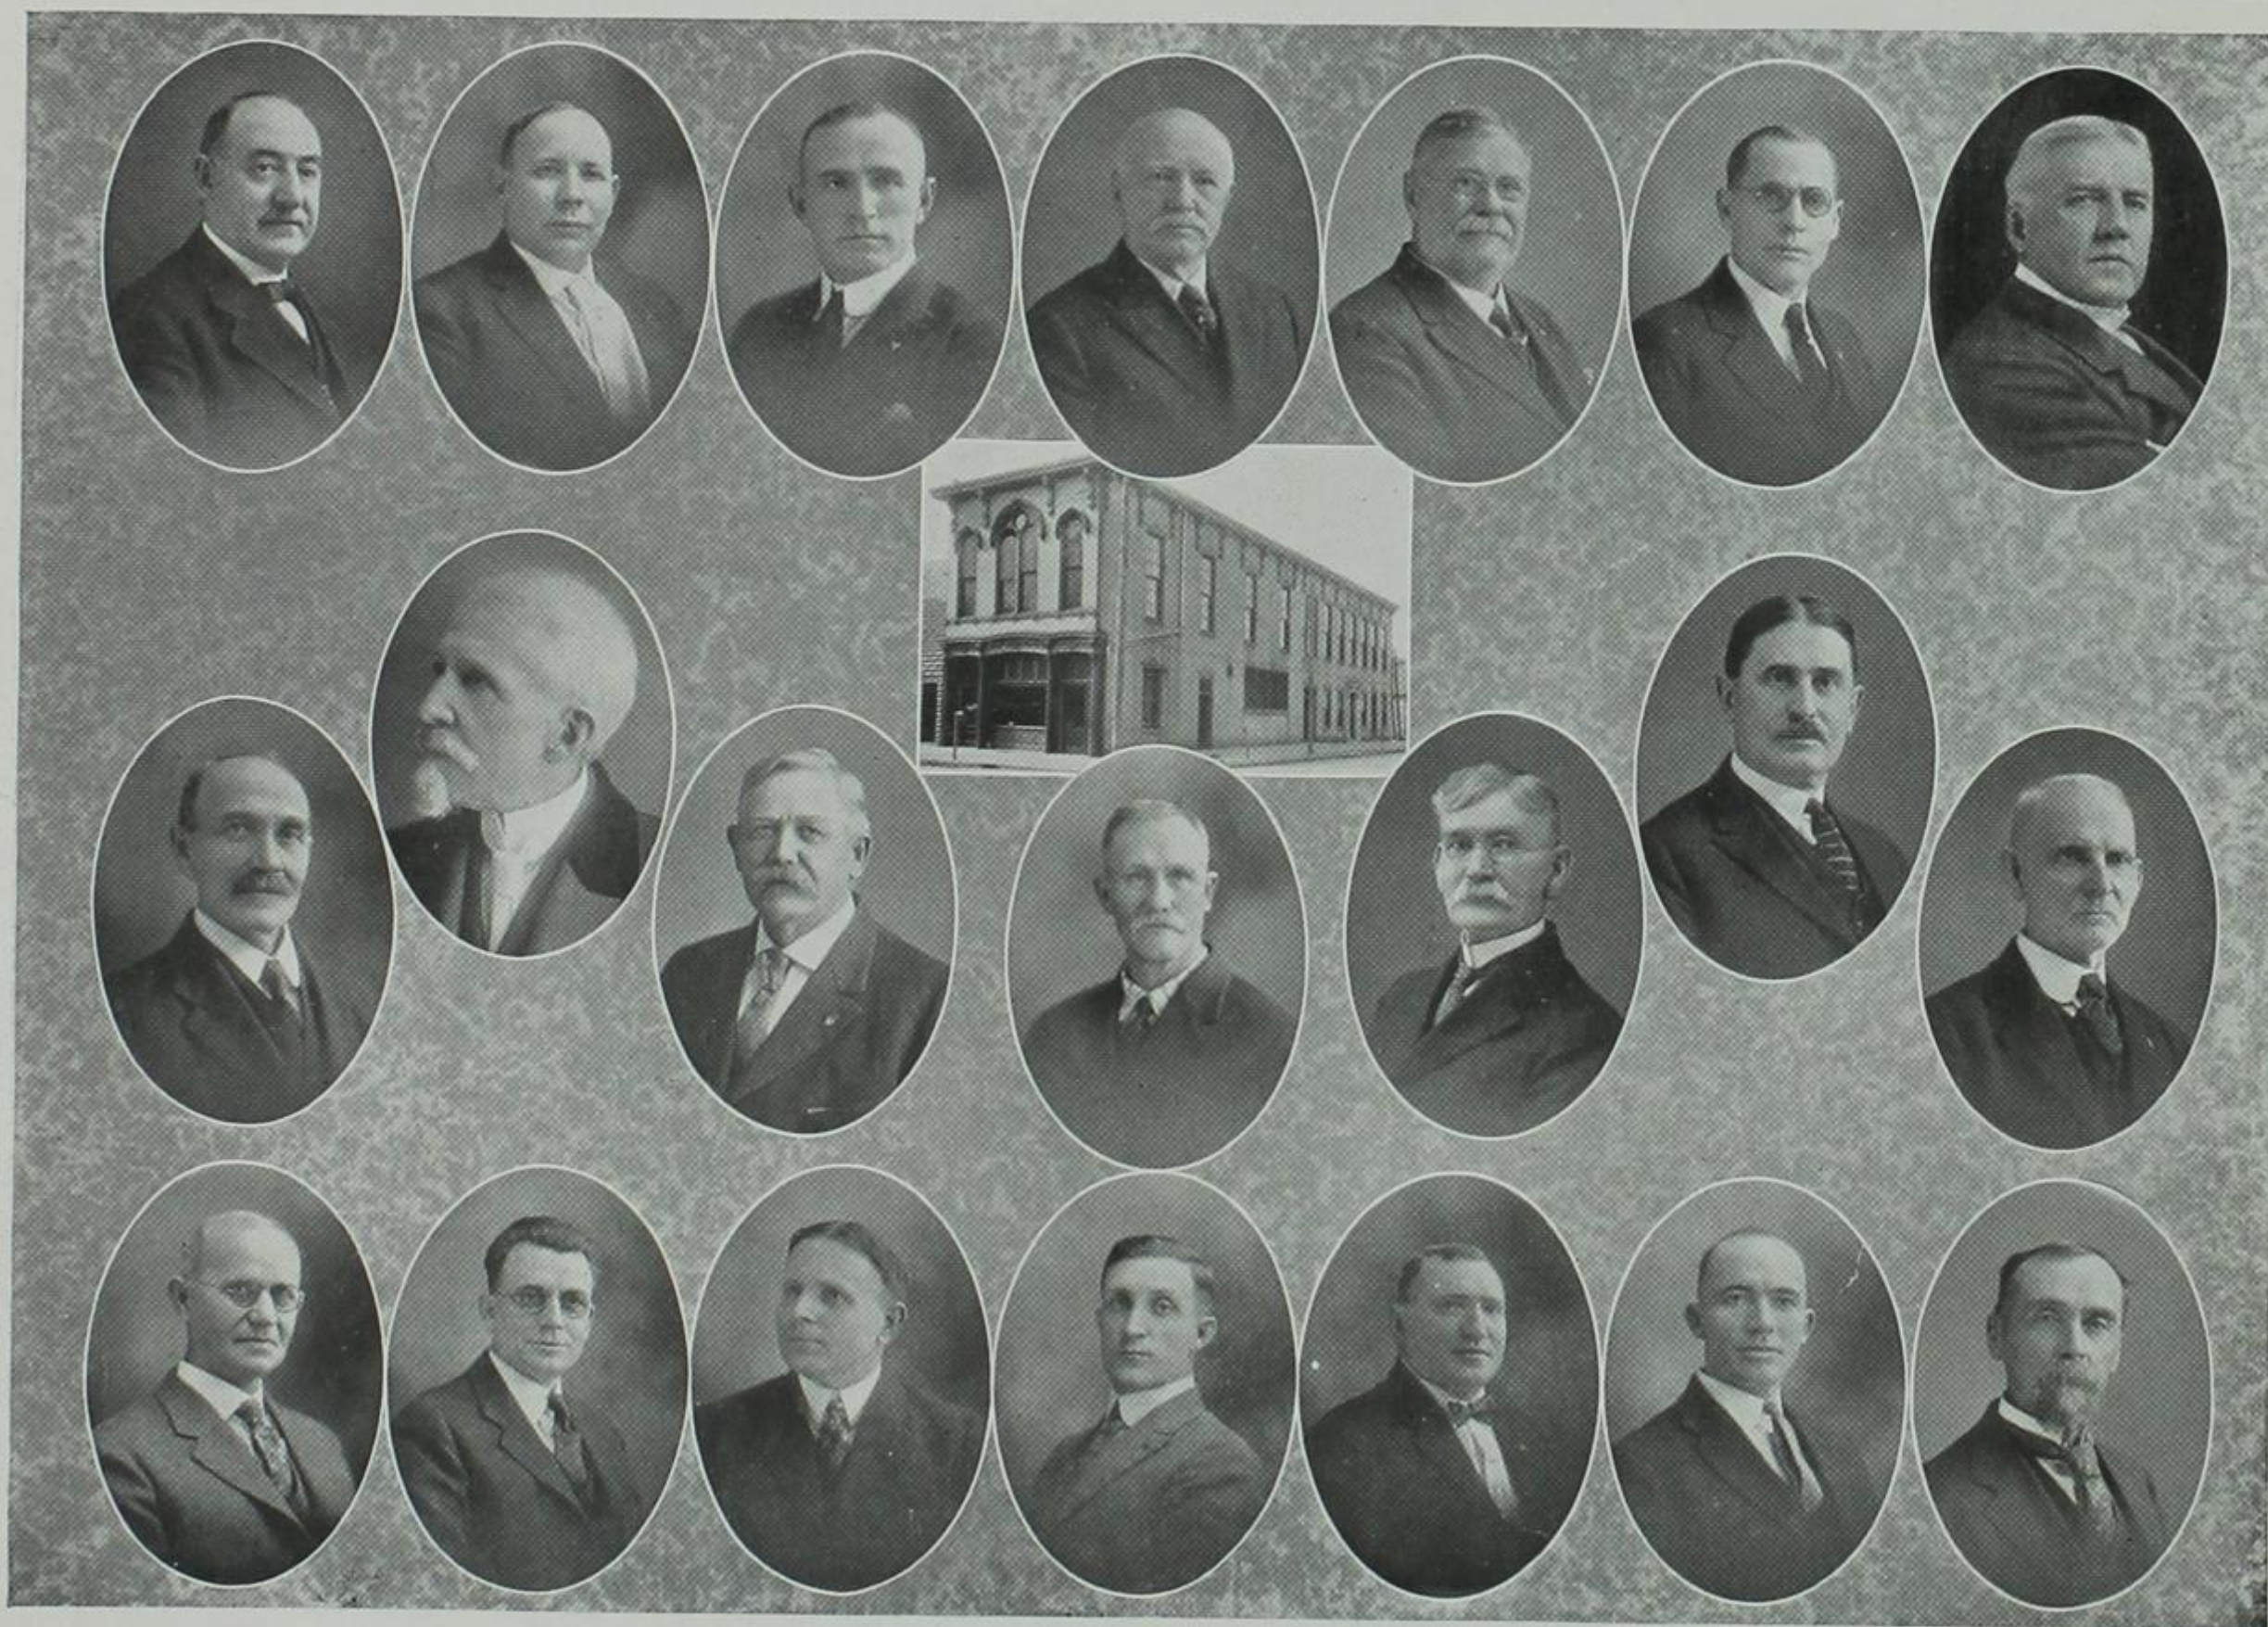

The three important factors to take into consideration in building up any community are: first—industrial development, second—civic development, third—agricultural development. A well balanced community is necessary in order to properly grow. New Albany is working to this end. The most important is our good citizenship and the fine spirit of good fellowship and co-operation displayed in building up this community and making New Albany a better place in which to live and do business. Our manufacturers always welcome an opportunity to encourage other industries to locate here.

New Albany offers many advantages for the location and successful operation of manufacturing plants and many opportunities for profitable real estate development.

To the investor, wage earner, manufacturer, or those desiring a home in a healthful locality where exceptional advantages exist, New Albany stands worthy of the highest consideration.
